

CARS LEAVE TRACK AND HIT BUILDING

West Wing of Ahlbrand Carriage Plant is Badly Damaged in an Unusual Accident.

DAMAGE IS NOT YET KNOWN

Freight Cars Bounce Across The Street and Brakeman is Unable to Reduce Speed.

The west wing of the Ahlbrand Carriage Co., was badly damaged shortly before noon by a cut of Pennsylvania cars which left the switch on the north side of the building. The cars were sent with such speed that they jumped a pile of sand at the end of the switch, crossed the street, broke down the curbing and struck the building with such force that both walls were bulged about eighteen inches.

At the time of the accident, E. H. Ahlbrand, treasurer of the company was in the office but was not injured.

The cars which did the damage were part of a Pennsylvania train which was switching. The crew attempted to place five cars on the side track which ends on the north side of Laurel street just across from the factory. The crew tried to make what is known as a running switch by throwing the cars into the siding expecting that the brakeman would stop them with the hand brake. The brakeman was on the south car and made every effort to apply the brakes but it seems that they failed to work. Two of the cars jumped the track and forced their way through the pile of sand and dirt which was placed at the end of switch. Two rear cars ran across the street, jumped the curb on the opposite side and the south car struck the north wall of the building directly in front of the office. A large hole was knocked into the wall and the side of the building was bulged about eighteen inches. The south wall of the building was also damaged and was bulged about fifteen or eighteen inches.

Ropes have been placed around the part of the building which was damaged as the walls are unsafe and may fall at any time. It is not known just what the amount of the damage will be but it is probable that it will be necessary to tear down the entire damaged part of the building. The west wall of this section of the building does not appear to have been damaged, but it is believed that it was weakened by the collision. The water pipes in the building were broken when the cars struck and the lower floor was flooded, but very little damage resulted.

The part of the building which was damaged was used as a storage room and all of the vehicles on the lower floor were gotten out and were not damaged. Those on the second floor have not been damaged in any way and will be removed as soon as proper provisions can be made. The partitions which divided the office from the main building were damaged but it is not believed that any of the factory records were destroyed. A small clock in the office was stopped at 12:20. It is supposed that the jar

COMMITTS SUICIDE BY DRINKING ACID

Thomas White of Freetown, Takes His Own Life in Hay Loft Early Sunday Morning.

ILL HEALTH CAUSED BY WORRY.

Swallows Fatal Fluid After Telling His Wife He Will Return to The House.

Thomas White, well known citizen of Salt Creek township, committed suicide early Sunday morning at his home in Freetown by drinking carbolic acid. He had been in poor health for some time due to worry, and this is supposed to have been the cause of his act.

He arose shortly after 5 o'clock Sunday morning but was missed soon afterwards by his wife. She inquired among several of the neighbors in her endeavor to locate him. About 6 o'clock she discovered him in the barn loft and asked him to come down and go into the house, but her entreaties were in vain, and he told her that he was tired and wanted to take a short nap and requested her to return in an hour when he would come to the house. She finally agreed to his request and left the barn, but before she reached the house she heard him give the loud scream.

Mrs. White immediately returned to the barn and found that her husband had taken a large amount of carbolic acid. He lived but a short time afterwards. Medical attention was given but it was found that the carbolic acid had done its deadly work.

White has been in poor health for several months, having worried considerably over the death of his mother which occurred a few months ago. Since that time he has worried over many trivial matters which were of little importance but which were regarded by him as serious. For some time he has been watched closely by the members of his family.

Mr. White was 44 years of age and is survived by his widow, four daughters, one son, his father, one brother and two sisters. The funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Freetown conducted by Rev. Mr. Meahl and assisted by Rev. Mead Reynolds. Burial at the Freetown cemetery.

FIREMAN INJURED

George Riley Falls From Tank and is Injured.

George Riley, a fireman on the B. & O., met with an accident near Shoals yesterday and was painfully injured. Riley was on the train that was wrecked but was not injured and after the wreck proceeded with his train. At Shoals the engine stopped for water and Riley was working on top of the tank. In some manner he slipped and fell off the tank. He was considerably bruised but not seriously injured. He was brought to this city Sunday afternoon and taken to his home on South Bill street.

OWNERS RECOVER STOLEN PROPERTY

Horse and Wagon Taken From Phillips' Barn at Brownstown Found Sunday Near Vallonia.

THIEVES ARE NOT LOCATED.

Chickens Belonging to Chas. Benton and E. M. Wells Also Taken, Are Sold.

The horse and wagon which were stolen Friday night from Joseph Phillips of Brownstown and the set of harness belonging to W. C. Dailey, which was taken at the same time, were found early Sunday morning near Vallonia. It has also developed that the thieves made a visit to the chicken yards of Postmaster Chas. Benton and E. M. Wells and got away with a number of fine chickens.

An investigation shows that after the thieves accomplished their work at Brownstown, they started out for Vallonia, and the chickens were sold to a store there. The thieves, whose names have not yet been learned, borrowed a wheel-barrow from Cook's livery barn at Vallonia and wheeled the chickens from the wagon, which they left at the edge of town, to a merchant at Vallonia. It seems that after the poultry was sold the wagon was then taken to a woods about two miles south of Vallonia and concealed. The horse was found running loose upon the road and the harness was found hanging upon a small bush along the side of the road.

Mr. Wells and Mr. Benton had no trouble in identifying their property, as Mr. Wells' chickens were registered and carried bands around their legs.

Mr. Benton's chickens were also of a fine variety and could be easily identified. The chickens were in a coop which is supposed to have been stolen from the Schneider Produce Co., at Brownstown.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips came to Vallonia yesterday and identified their property and returned home with it. The harness was also returned and none of the property seems to have been damaged in any way.

The men who sold the chickens are supposed to have been the ones guilty of the theft and as they were seen at Vallonia, it is supposed that arrests will be made within a few days. Two Brownstown men were suspected of the theft and were arrested Sunday but it was later found that they were not the ones who stole the chickens and were released.

A large amount of petty larceny has been reported in the western part of the county during the past few months and the people there are anxious that the thieves be apprehended and an effort be made to stop the robbing. Several of the farmers near Vallonia have lost many of their chickens, and while the guilty parties have been suspected, no proof could be secured which would justify arrests.

CROTHERSVILLE WINS

"Blues" Win From Jeffersonville by Score of 4 to 0.

The Crothersville "Blues" played a fast game on their home grounds Sunday afternoon and won from the Jeffersonville team by a score of 4-0. The Crothersville team has been putting up a strong exhibition of the American game this season, and the game Sunday was one of the best on local grounds.

Coleman and Beldon were the battery for the "Blues" and did some great work. The Crothersville team had the best of the game at all times, although in several of the innings the contest was close and exciting from the standpoint of the spectators.

BROWNSTOWN MAY GET FALL MEETING

Presbyterian Church of That Place Extends Invitation to New Albany Presbytery.

ACCEPTANCE ALMOST ASSURED

Rev. L. H. Rule is Chairman of Social Service and Country Life Movement.

It now seems a settled fact that the fall meeting of New Albany Presbytery, which includes most of Southern Indiana, will be held in the Brownstown Presbyterian church Sept. 17-19. The congregation Sunday with Capt. D. B. Vance presiding, decided to extend the invitation, which is almost certain to be accepted. And this will bring to Jackson county one of the most interesting and important religious gatherings of the year.

The choice of Brownstown came about in this way. At the April meeting of Presbytery in Hanover a committee on Social Service and the Country Life Movement was appointed of which Rev. L. V. Rule, pastor at Brownstown and Crothersville, is chairman. On the committee are Rev. J. W. Findley of Bedford, President Mills of Hanover College, Rev. J. R. Voris of New Albany and Rev. F. W. Grossman of Franklin. The committee met in Louisville during the recent Presbyterian General Assembly and discussed their work fully with the Social Specialist of the church, Rev. Warren H. Wilson of New York. It was first planned to hold the Pres-

GERMAN WARSHIPS WELCOMED BY TAFT

Round of Festivities and Official Functions Will Be Given During Squadron's Visit.

AMERICAN GUNS ROAR SALUTE

Three Big Ships, Glistening Like Silver, Steam Into Hampton Roads.

Ft. Monroe, Va., June 3.—President Taft's official welcome of the visiting German warships here today began a round of festivities and official functions that will end only when the squadron weighs anchor for home.

The German emperor's three big fighting machines that have come to the United States to return the visit of American warships to Kiel last year, came up to Hampton Roads from Lynnhaven bay early today, escorted by the ships of Admiral Winslow's third division of the Atlantic fleet. Both squadrons roared out a twenty-one-gun salute as the Mayflower steamed into the roads, with President Taft and the German ambassador Count van Bernstorff.

The American ships had quietly slipped their cables and headed down the roads. The first streaks of dawn disclosed them gliding down to the Virginia capes to meet the visitor.

Things have been in a great bustle aboard, both squadrons for the last three days making ready for the reception.

The red rust and salt of a trans-Atlantic voyage had been removed from the German fighters by a slick coat of gray paint. Decks hollystoned and swabbed, glistened like snow or silver as the sun broke through the gray clouds that had threatened a dark day for the ceremonies.

Every ship had been made fit for parade day from garb-orded strake to mizzentop and hundreds of multi-colored flags flapped and filled in the freshening breeze. Just at daybreak the shrill pipe of the boatswain's whistles aboard the German ships announced the escort of American ships approaching. From the bridge of the Moltke, the German flagship, a string of signal flags broke out and waved a message to the Bremen and Stettin.

"Prepare to get under way, single column," was the brief command Admiral Rebeur von Paschwitz flashed to his captains. While the American ships were turning about to head up the bay with their guests, the German ships with anchors short up and dripping at the bows, swung into line for the procession to Old Point, where the President of the United States was waiting.

KIDNEY TROUBLE

CASES LUMBAGO.

Remarkable Story About Great Remedy.

I cannot refrain from writing to say that your Swamp-Root has benefited me greatly. Last year I had a severe attack of lumbago. Was bad for a long time, and on seeing your advertisement, I determined to give it a trial. I did so and in two weeks was cured. I gave a bottle to a poor woman who could scarcely walk. She came to me in four days to tell me she was all right and most thankful. I had another attack last November and was so bad I could not rise from my chair without assistance and could hardly lace up my boot. I at once sent for more Swamp-Root and after taking two bottles, I am more than glad that I am well again. My age being seventy-three, I am the more convinced of the excellence of Swamp-Root.

Yours very truly,

Heart to Heart Talks.

WE MUST FORGET.

The Titanic!

You have not forgotten how the great liner on the 15th day of April crashed into the iceberg that fared forth from the frozen north and of how it slid, like a great coffin, holding its 1,700 dead, down to the beasts and the ooze of the sea, two miles below.

Nor of how the captain of millions and the peasant stood together at the rail as the cruel sea carried off their loves and hopes.

But already it is a dim memory.

Just as that vast iceberg in the middle of the north Atlantic, towering up 500 feet like a great monument to the dead below, had drifted into warmer waters and melted, so after the first shock of the shuddering plunge of the Titanic was over—so swift does one woe tread upon another's heels—are we beginning to forget.

Violent emotion, great sympathy, quick forgetfulness—these are the features of our modern life.

Some there are who never will forget.

The memory of the ship's tragedy has burned into their consciousness a scar that will not disappear, but in the general consciousness the thought is as unmindful as the waves above the dead.

We are like children.

Scarcely have the tears dried from our eyes than the smiles appear. As when the Titanic went down and the waves closed together above it, making smooth waters, so do we forget.

Lest we forget!

Go to the steamship ticket offices. Will you not find the same surging crowds? And even today over the treacherous waters tourists lounge on the decks and the owners of dancing feet find pleasures.

It is only the surface of our recollections that gets printed by the day's events, and tomorrow's new impression wipes it out.

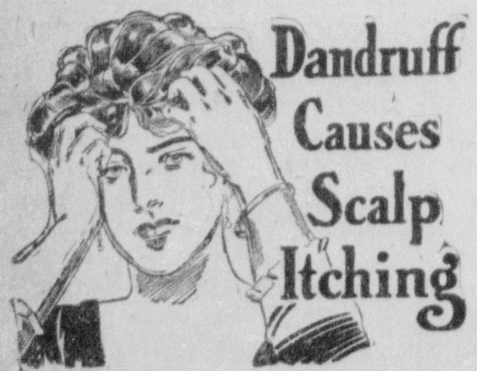

Some things ought not to be forgotten—the criminal carelessness of the ship's owners, the gambling with death, the taking of chances to save money, the speed mania. All these should be remembered, and there should be exemplary punishment, but—humanity must forget!

We cannot always go mourning with regret. Mercifully are our memories made like children's slates from which may be wiped the horror of cataclysm and cruel visitation.

And so the peasant builds his cottage on the verge while the crater's lip is warm. And so the smooth sea smiles, and—

We forget.

We must forget!

TEMPERAMENT OF YOUTH.

All children are liars. This is the universal testimony of parents who have studied their young ones; and the wise mother and father do not despair, for they know that the tendency to weave fairy tales and tell yarns is one that is corrected naturally as the child emerges from infancy and the mirage of youth fades into the truth of maturity, says the Washington Post. The youngster who rushes to his mother with glistening eye and fevered cheeks and reels off with vast sincerity a story of some recent encounter with a frightful bear may grow up to be a veritable George Washington. The greater imagination the child has the more faithful and specific will be the details he uses to embellish his romance. Now and then one meets among his acquaintances a man who has never grown up, but who carries his Peter Pan days well into middle life. He loses his grip in business, and after going ahead for a while drops back into the ranks of the incompetents. He seems never to appreciate the responsibilities of manhood. His mind does not develop beyond a certain stage. Of the problems grappled with and conquered by his fellows, he never appears to hear. He does not keep pace with the movement of the world about him. In a man's body he carries the mind of a child; and yet he may be lovable, and good, and generous, and a pleasant companion on fishing trips.

Time was when woman seemed or was regarded as wholly unfitted for the field of journalism, especially for the exacting demands of the daily newspaper work, but that time is passed. Woman is in journalism in all its branches and phases and has even taken her place on the staff of the daily newspaper and filling it very acceptably. She is not to be crowded out, for her advent has created new fields which she must fill; cultivated new tastes which she must feed. Journalism has, of all the professions, probably, kept pace with changing times and conditions the best, which it had to do, of course, to live, for it is vitally dependent upon popular whims. So it is as much woman's work as man's, and that old-time prejudice against "a woman in the office" would be absurd today. It seems that to do the broadest work and distribute privileges most fairly a school of journalism might well afford to admit women as well as men. For journalism cannot rid itself of women, therefore it should do all it can to make her as effective a worker as possible.

The smallest republic in the world without contradiction is that of Tavorara, a little island situated about a dozen kilometers (seven and a half miles) from Sardinia. It is a little more than a mile in length, and has a population of 55. The sovereignty of the island was accorded in 1836 by King Charles Albert to the Bartoleoni family. Up to 1882 Paul I. reigned peaceable over his little island kingdom, but at his death the islanders proclaimed a republic, says the London Globe. By the constitution of the republic the president is elected for ten years and women exercise the franchise.

A New York woman asserts that a painted portrait of herself is a necessity of life, and therefore that the artist must collect the price from her husband, whom she is suing for a separation. But supposing the husband does not see the necessity of her living?

It does not require any official forecasts or any expert knowledge to be assured in advance that this is going to be a hot summer. Nor is it any secret that the highest temperatures of the season will be recorded at Chicago and Baltimore.

The kaiser has gone into business in South Africa as a sheep farmer. But he will not give up the imperial business just yet for sheep-tending. He is merely following the industrial tendency of the age in which money is king.

An American recently attracted attention by throwing money away in the streets of London. He must have been a lazy person who did not wish to have to undergo the trouble of passing it around in tips.

New Jersey is outlining another great campaign against the mosquito. As New Jersey is a thrifty state and the mosquito is always putting in a bill, it naturally encounters some opposition.

A Chicago woman is suing a beauty doctor for $50,000 for spoiling her complexion. But why should a woman with a face worth that much money go to a beauty doctor?

There is cause to believe that the Massachusetts woman who left $100,000 to her horse bequeathed nightmares to some of her relatives.

Just to vary the monotony a little, St. Louis is to have a municipal campaign for swatting the mosquito.

JUST GETTING A START, 'TIS SAID

Other Graft Exposures Expected at Atlantic City.

SOME EXTRAS FOR "THE BOYS"

In Addition to the "Board Walk" Steal Already Uncovered, It Is Said That Revelations Concerning Big Drainage Canal Project Will Show an Even More Startling Condition of Willingness to Accept "Side" Money.

Atlantic City, N. J. June 3.—It is understood that the big trap in the Atlantic City graft exposure will be sprung about next Wednesday. That will be after a final council and summing up of the situation tomorrow, at which Governor Wilson, Attorney General Edmund Wilson, Deputy Attorney General Caskell, Harvey Thomas, representatives of William J. Burns, and some men identified with the "clean-up" movement, will get together.

A little more evidence of graft has slipped out and the most ambitious statesman could not call this "small stuff." In the matter of the drainage canal, which has cost the city $860,000 to date, in addition to the fact that it was obtained by Boss Kuehnle's United Paving company, they have discovered that about $300,000 extra was distributed around to "the boys" in one form or another.

The graft exposure thus far has involved Councilmen Samuel Phoebeus, Gus Kessler, William Mallia, James Lane, Harry Dougherty and four others whose names are not disclosed. William J. Burns, the detective, trapped the first four into a confession and jailed Dougherty for further hearing on the charge of accepting graft for their support in securing the passage of the "concrete boardwalk bill," a million-dollar operation openly branded as a steal, at the time it was introduced during January. More arrests are expected. It is said the revelations in connection with the steal will lead to other things of more sensational nature.

Dougherty was the only one of the quintet to hold his nerve when confronted with dictograph records of the conversation which took place when it is alleged he with the others accepted a $500 bribe, "a retainer," to push the deal. Dougherty laughed in Burns's face, refused to make a signed confession as the others had done and told the sleuth to "go as far as he liked."

BURNED AT DOCK

The Cunard Liner Carmania Suffers Heavy Loss at Liverpool.

Liverpool, June 3.—The Cunard steamer Carmania was greatly damaged by fire here Sunday at the West Huskisson dock, in the same berth where the Lucania was burned a year ago. The fire was a stubborn one and columns of thick smoke poured from every opening amidship from the boat deck to the water line. Every available fireman in Liverpool besides hundreds of police were engaged in fighting the flames. The upper deck apparently was completely destroyed before the flames were gotten under control. All the finest staterooms were located here. The vessel's list is so great that she would turn over but for the strength of her moorings. It is figured that her restoration will occupy at least a couple of months and will cost thousands of pounds.

Ambitious Interurban Project.

Indianapolis, June 3.—Articles of incorporation have been filed with the secretary of state by the Indianapolis, Newcastle & Eastern Traction company, a new syndicate capitalized for $1,000,000, for the purpose of taking over the Honey Bee line, incorporated as the Indianapolis, Newcastle & Northeastern, which was capitalized at $10,000. That this deal will mean another addition to the Randall Morgan interests is regarded without doubt.

Another Victim of the Air.

North Yakima, Wash., June 3.—With a smile and a wave of his hand to the thousands who watched him in his aeroplane, Philip O. Parmelee took the air in the teeth of a gusty west wind here. Three minutes later his broken and lifeless body was dragged from beneath the wreckage of his biplane two miles from his starting point.

"THAT'S GOOD NEWS"

What Broom Had to Say When He Heard Allison Was Captured.

Marion, Ind., June 3.—Sheriff George has been notified that William Orville Allison, wanted here for the murder of Wade Robinson of Landessville, who, it is alleged, was shot to death by Allison on Dec. 28, is under arrest at Carrington, N. D. Sheriff George left immediately for Carrington to take Allison in charge and return him to Grant county for trial. The capture of Allison was effected at Tuttle, N. D., and, according to dispatches, he did not resist.

Ralph T. Broom, wanted for complicity in the murder of Robinson, was arrested at Rugby, N. D. May 15, and he is now a prisoner here. Broom and Allison are cousins. Allison, who is twenty-four years old, confessed to Sheriff Atkin that he was wanted in this city for complicity in a shooting scrape.

"That's good news," said Broom, when told that his cousin had been arrested, adding, "he ought to share his part of the crime."

WELCOMED BY THE PRESIDENT

Visiting German Squadron Greeted at Hampton Roads.

A FORMAL OFFICIAL CEREMONY

Accompanied by Mrs. Taft, the German Ambassador, Aides to Secretary of Navy and Others, Mr. Taft Put in at Hampton Roads on Board the Mayflower and Reviewed the Visitors and Their Imposing Convoy.

Hampton Roads, June 3.—To welcome the visiting German squadron, President Taft arrived here today at noon on the yacht Mayflower.

On the Mayflower with the president besides Mrs. Taft were Secretary of the Navy Meyer, Count Von Bernstorff, ambassador from Germany; Admiral Badger, special naval aide to the president; Captain Remplin Potts, special aide to the secretary of the navy; Secretary to the President Hilles, and a number of naval officers.

The ceremonies of extending welcome to the warships of the kaiser consisted of a review by the president's yacht of the three German ships and eight American battleships, constituting the first and second divisions of the Atlantic fleet and the official convoy to the German vessels.

The Mayflower will leave Hampton Roads at 4 o'clock this afternoon for Washington, arriving there early on Tuesday morning. On Wednesday Admiral Rebeur-Paschwitz and two of his officers will go to Washington on a specially chartered vessel and be the guests of the navy department for three days. The program of entertainment includes their reception by the president at the White House.

SHIFT OF SCENE

Taft and Roosevelt Managers Now Moving on Chicago.

Washington, June 3.—The rival presidential headquarters of Taft and Roosevelt, presided over by Representative McKinley and Senator Dixon respectively, have closed so far as Washington is concerned. Senator Dixon went to New York Sunday afternoon to have a last word with the colonel and will go direct to Chicago, where he will have charge of the Roosevelt offices.

The last of the paper cannonading has been fired. Mr. McKinley interpreted Colonel Roosevelt's action in declaring off the fight on Senator Root for temporary chairman as sounding a retreat. Senator Dixon's farewell fling was an attack upon the manner in which tickets for the convention were distributed. He reiterated it was the purpose of the Taft supporters to pack the convention.

Dixon's Hands Full.

New York, June 3.—If Colonel Roosevelt is nominated at Chicago he will have to struggle along without the services of Senator Dixon as campaign manager. It is said that Senator Dixon has told the colonel that he will have to resign as field marshal in order to skip back to Montana and make his own fight for re-election to the senate.

Patrolman Beats Back Mob.

Philadelphia, June 3.—George Welker, accused of misconduct with two little girls, was saved from lynching Sunday afternoon by a policeman who fought with a mob of 200 angry men and children until his club had been taken away and his clothes were almost torn off. He saved himself and his prisoner when he drew his revolver and shot at the feet of the mob. Even then the mob pressed about the prisoner. The report of the shots from the policeman's gun brought a dozen men acquainted with the officer, who went through the crowd and protected the policeman and his prisoner until other policemen in the patrol wagon arrived.

Crushed by Mass of Iron.

Laport, Ind., June 3.—Alexander Oldendorf, an employee of the Rumely company, died at the Holy Family hospital as the result of an accident when a mass of iron fell upon him. Both of his legs were crushed and he died as the surgeons were preparing to amputate his limbs.

Defense Scores Strong Point.

Rushville, Ind., June 3.—The defense in the Harris murder trial scored its best point when evidence supporting the theory that Mrs. Harris died of heart trouble, when she discovered her home on fire, and was not murdered, as is alleged by the state, was allowed to be introduced.

Owensboro Policeman Slain.

Owensboro, Ky., June 3.—While searching the woods for George Blackburn, wanted on the charge of horse stealing, Policeman Coleman Dawson was killed and Policeman James Bell seriously wounded by shots supposed to have been fired by the fugitive.

A Congressional Inquiry.

Washington, June 3.—The congressional investigation of the beef trust will be taken up by the house judiciary committee tomorrow.

JOB E. HEDGES.

Mentioned by Republicans for Governorship of New York State

New York, June 3.—Lawyer Job E. Hedges announces that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the governorship of New York. He is a Taft man and has been speaking for Taft recently, but he says he would like to get the nomination "not as the nominee of any faction of the party."

CUBAN TOWN BURNED BY COLORED REBELS

Havana, June 3.—The negro commander-in-chief, Gen. Estonez, burned the town of La Maya, on the railroad between San Luis and Guantanamo. There were fifteen rurales stationed as defenders of the town, but their resistance was futile. The federal troops had left La Maya unprotected and had gone to attack the main force of rebels.

The latest reports confirm the story that the slaughter in the recent fighting occurred only in the first few minutes, when the camp was surprised.

General Monteaugado, the commander of the forces, says: "This is not a revolution, it is a lot of negroes who are armed and who are taking advantage of the present situation."

President Gomez has dispatched the gunboat Patria to Santiago with 650 additional men and has ordered that the strongest sort of measures be promptly taken in the vicinity of Daiquiri. A large force of Cuban soldiers was rushed to Daiquiri, as General Ivoonet had been demanding from the superintendent of the company explosives and other materials for threatening a general property destruction. The gunboat Paducah's captain already has carte blanche authority from the American state department to use his judgment in the matter of preventing a further menace to American property.

Crushed in Elevator Shaft.

Fairmount, W. Va., June 3.—Nellie Syputt and Eleanor Crowe, employees of a glass factory, were killed when the elevator on which they were sitting was accidentally started and they were crushed against the shaft. Miss Syputt is the fifth member of her family to meet a violent death in four years.

Killed on Government Lock.

Lexington, Ky., June 3.—In an accident on government lock No. 13, on the Kentucky river, two men were fatally injured, several others hurt and fifteen men narrowly escaped death. A derrick overloaded with concrete fell.

POSSE FINALLY GOT DESPERADO

But Not Until the Latter's Ammunition Gave Out.

EXCITING INDIANA MAN HUNT

William McManus, Who Shot Father of His Sweetheart and Then Eloped With the Girl, Held a Posse at Bay For Twenty-Four Hours, Finally Ran Out of Ammunition and Was Compelled to Give Up the Struggle.

Elkhart, Ind., June 3.—Until the last cartridge had been fired at the deputies from a pair of six-shooters, William McManus, with his arms about the girl whose father he had shot and seriously injured when paternal interference threatened to thwart an elopement held at bay a sheriff's posse.

The girl, Miss Alma Kindy, the daughter of a farmer, Andrew Kindy, living ten miles northeast of Elkhart, and who was twice shot by McManus, remained with the young man and the two were captured in a barricaded barn after having led the officers an exciting race for twenty-four hours.

McManus intercepted Kindy on the highway north of Bristol. The latter was accompanied by the girl and her mother. McManus demanded that the girl be permitted to accompany him, and Kindy, looking into the yawning muzzles of a brace of revolvers, surrendered his daughter to the young man. The infuriated lover, according to Kindy's statement, declared that he would kill Kindy, and thereupon fired twice. One bullet struck Kindy in the left eye and the other shattered his cheek bone.

The girl and the young man fled from the scene and got over the Michigan line and attempted to hide in a swamp. The sheriff of St. Joseph county, Michigan, organized a posse and gave chase. Several times the posse came in sight of the fleeing lovers and frequently shots were exchanged between McManus and the deputies, who had been ordered to take the pair dead or alive. One of the deputies suffered a slight bullet wound. After nightfall the posse lost sight of the couple, but the two were surrounded later in a barn on the farm of McManus's father and forced to surrender, because the young man's supply of ammunition gave out.

McManus was lodged in jail at Centerville, Mich., and the girl was left with friends, under the surveillance of a deputy sheriff pending further developments.

HELD TO ANSWER

Alleged Dynamiter Unable to Secure Bond Fixed by Court.

Columbus, Ind., June 3.—Enzer Reed, twenty-eight years old and unmarried, of Hope, was arrested here, charged with unlawfully using dynamite and committing arson, assault and battery with intent to kill, and malicious trespass. He was unable to give $6,000 bond. Warrants also have been issued for the arrest of a well-known young man of Hope, charged with the unlawful use of dynamite and malicious trespass.

A few months ago the Hope school building was dynamited and the heating plant was wrecked. A barn belonging to Philip Spough of Hope, father of Prosecuting Attorney Ralph H. Spough, was set on fire and while Spough was running to the burning barn he was felled by a blow from a club.

Took Horrid Revenge.

Michigan City, Ind., June 3.—To avenge himself on a man with whom he was at enmity, Charles Joseph, a Syrian employed in the foundry of the car factory, poured a ladle of molten iron on Nephem Sam, a fellow worker. Sam was stooping at the time and when he arose screaming with agony the metal flowed from the middle of his back to his heels, taking clothing, skin and flesh in its course. The victim was rushed to a hospital, but doctors doubt that he can recover.

Drowned in Sight of Friends.

Columbus, Ind., June 3.—James Cunningham, forty-five years old, a wealthy farmer, was drowned in Flatrock river, near here. He with others of a fishing party, was swimming, when he was attacked by cramps and drowned before his companions, who risked their own lives, could save him. Ray Bossell and Jack Ames were pulled ashore by ropes.

Fatal Industrial Accidents.

Gary, Ind., June 3.—Victor S. Lovinski, an eighteen-year-old boy employed in the electrical department of the Illinois Steel company, was electrocuted while operating a crane in the rail mill. Seavel Spainslaw, twenty-three years old, was killed at the local plant of the American Bridge company by being crushed under a piece of structural steel.

Associated Weeklies Elect Officers.

Morristown, Ind., June 3.—A. J. Hurling of Winslow was elected president of the Indiana Associated Weeklies at their meeting here, and Ora McDaniel of this city secretary-treasurer.

LEW SHANK

His Hat Is in the Ring For Job as Governor of Indiana.

Mitchell, Ind., June 3.—Mayor Shank of Indianapolis opened his campaign for governor of Indiana before an audience of more than 1,000 persons, gathered on the main corner of Mitchell. "I want to be governor of Indiana because it pays better than the office of mayor," said he. "If I get to be governor it will be the best job I ever had, and that is why I want it. There is no use in candidates coming out and saying it is the people who are demanding them in office because no one will believe them."

LORIMER IS LOSING SENATE SUPPORTERS

Illinois Senator Is Billed to Lose His Job.

Washington, June 3.—According to the most reliable polls that have been made of the senate, Senator William Lorimer will be ousted from his seat on the second vote on the question of his eligibility by a majority of from 14 to 17. The latest canvass of the senate shows 54 votes against Lorimer, 37 in his favor and three doubtful.

It is possible that Lorimer's vote may be smaller than thirty when the times comes, because a number of Lorimer's friends have expressed disgust because he refused to resign and force the issue.

The progressive Republicans to a man are against Lorimer. The regulars who were opposed to him last year have had their convictions strengthened by the additional evidence obtained by the Dillingham investigating committee.

JEALOUS WOMAN

Shot Her Supposed Rival in Husband's Affections.

Cookeville, Tenn., June 3.—Accused of the murder of a woman who she declared had upset the peace of her home, Mrs. J. C. Barnes was arrested here. The warrant was sworn to by A. W. Judd, husband of Mrs. Barnes's victim.

When the sheriff went to serve his warrant, Mrs. Barnes ran to the door to meet him. "I'm glad you've come, sheriff," she exclaimed. "I've suffered ten thousand deaths in two years. Peace is in sight now."

The killing grew out of Mrs. Barnes's expressed suspicion that her husband and Mrs. Judd had been too friendly. Mrs. Barnes boarded a train between Nashville and Buffalo Valley, found her intended victim on a car platform and shot her dead without warning.

Mrs. Barnes was Miss Myrtle Hearst and was reared in Evansville, Ind. She has a large estate in Oklahoma.

Coney's Lights Go Out.

New York, June 3.—Coney Island was in total darkness for twelve minutes Sunday night. The electric lights all over the island went out, leaving some 200,000 pleasure seekers in dance halls, amusement parks and restaurants to grope their way about in blackness that was accentuated by its comparison to the accustomed glare of the place. Although there were no serious accidents, the police station at midnight had ten children who had been lost.

Gun Fire Went Wrong.

Princeton, Ind., June 3.—Mrs. Stephens Meade, aged thirty-five, wife of a well-known farmer, was dangerously wounded by the accidental discharge of a shotgun in the hands of her husband while Mr. and Mrs. Meade were hunting for weasels in a pile of lumber, the charge striking Mrs. Meade in the right side and breast.

Suicide of a Woman.

Washington, Ind., June 3.—Mrs. Mary Taylor, fifty years old, swallowed carbolic acid and died. She was despondent because of illness and financial difficulties.

We Are Agents for

Bohn Syphon Refrigerators

—and, madam, the word, "Syphon" in this name is of vital importance to you. For it is the syphoning of pure fresh air through this refrigerator that maintains a temperature of 42 degrees, checks the multiplication of germs in food, keeps the ice bill down and the butter sweet even in the company of fish, cheese, onions, etc. We can demonstrate to you things that you have never seen a refrigerator do before unless you have seen a Bohn before. The "Syphon" of the Bohn is patented, so you have seen it in no other kind.

The Bohn is one of the best looking refrigerators you ever saw, too. You ought to see it, and you ought to see it work. The Bohn is a "machine," madam, not an ordinary "icebox." See it today, even though you don't buy it for a year. We'll give you a free copy of the book "Scientific Food Keeping" which tells you all about food and about the risk some of us run in our own homes. CONFERENCE HELD

Z. T. Sweeney and Attorney General Discuss State Claims.

Attorney General Honan, Z. T. Sweeney, former state fish and game commissioner, and Charles F. Remy, representing Remy & Berryhill, Mr. Sweeney's attorneys, held a conference Saturday regarding the claim of the state held against Mr. Sweeney for unaccounted-for hunting licenses. Mr. Sweeney and his attorney outlined their position, and the attorney general said he would investigate and confer with them again this week.

Mr. Remy says that affidavits are on file to show these licenses, or a large number of them, were burned by E. E. Earle, Mr. Sweeney's deputy, following Mr. Sweeney's resignation. He contends that when Mr. Sweeney turned the licenses over to his Marion County deputy, whose office is provided for by law and whose duty it was to turn over all money received to the state treasurer and not to the commissioner, that his responsibility ended. He also contends that even if the commissioner could be held liable for the transactions of the deputy the fact that there is no record to show that the licenses were issued or any money collected for them would relieve him of responsibility.

Mr. Remy holds that the commissioner is no more liable for the acts of the deputy for Marion County than he is for the acts of county clerks who fulfill the duties of deputy in counties of less than 150,000.

BOARD OF REVIEW

Convened Today at Brownstown for Thirty Days' Session.

The County Board of Review met this morning at Brownstown, and will remain in session for thirty days. The Board this year will only consider the equalization of personal property, and it is understood that quite a number of taxpayers will ask for a hearing.

The Board this year will hear no complaints regarding the taxation of real estate. Real estate in this county is assessed every four years and the assessments cannot be changed during that period.

JACKSON COUNTY CONTEST DROPPED

Roosevelt Managers Decide Not to Make Fight Upon Delegates to The National Convention.

INFORMATION FROM HAYWORTH

Review of the Conditions Showed There Were No Grounds for Contest in Jackson or Jennings.

Judge O. H. Montgomery, one of the delegates-at-large from the Fourth district to the Republican National convention, has received information from William Hayworth, Secretary of the Republican National committee, that no contest will be made upon the delegates from the Fourth District. Webb Woodfill of Greensburg is the other delegate-at-large from the Fourth District.

The Roosevelt managers decided to drop the proposed contest in this District after they had investigated the situation. It was proposed to file contest proceedings upon the grounds that only part of the voters of this county and of Jennings county had a voice in the selection of the delegates, but after all the facts were reviewed, it was found that the delegates had been selected in these two counties in the same manner that had been adopted in previous years.

There has been some talk of a compromise upon certain delegates in Indiana, but it is understood that the managers of the Indiana Taft campaign are not inclined to give to the Roosevelt delegation any of the delegates which were legally elected in this state. The conventions in Indiana were conducted the same as in former years, and there would be little chance to successfully contest any of Taft delegates.

In a story to the Cincinnati Enquirer Sunday, R. G. Tucker gives an account of the developments of the contest of the Fourth district delegates as follows:

Word has been received by Webb Woodfill, Greensburg, that the Roosevelt managers have dropped their contest to unseat him and Judge Oscar Montgomery, Seymour, as delegates to the Chicago convention from the Fourth District.

Thomas F. Davidson and George L. Jeffery were the defeated Roosevelt delegates in the Fourth. Their brief was prepared by John Overmyre, North Vernon, who furnished the evidence. A printed brief on the Fourth District was filed by Overmyre, and the Taft men were preparing to meet it.

The principal grounds stated for unseating the two Taft delegates in the Fourth was that in Jackson and Jennings Counties the election of the delegates to the district convention was illegal. It was charged that in Jackson County five townships were not permitted to vote for delegates, but were given the alternates. A similar condition prevailed in Jennings County. In Jackson County there were but 396 Republican voters in the five townships not voting for delegates. The proportion was about the same in Jennings County, where the alternates were given to some of the townships.

The theory of the Roosevelt leaders was that a part of the Republicans of Jennings and Jackson Counties had been disfranchised. However, no objection was made to the plan in either county when the call was issued. It has been the custom in Jennings and Jackson for several years to elect delegates in that manner. As long as there was a chance to win the Roosevelt leaders participated in the mass conventions.

No serious effort was made in contest Jackson and Jennings Counties at the district convention. The Roosevelt managers figured on throwing out Jackson and Jennings, which would have given them a majority in the remainder of the district. In order, however, to have carried the scheme through it would have been necessary to have seated Davidson and Jeffery, although they were defeated.

The Roosevelt contest as to the Indianapolis district has been dropped. Mayor Shank and Wm. E. English are the Taft delegates there. It was shown that the Roosevelt men contested only 60 delegates at the district convention. They elected six. If they had been given all of the contested delegates they would have been in a minority in this district.

The Taft forces have filed eleven hour contests against the two Roosevelt delegates in the Sixth and the two Roosevelt delegates in the Ninth. The grounds are not stated. It is supposed that the basis in the Sixth is that the convention threw out the regularly elected Taft delegates from Newcastle, which gave the Roosevelt side control.

There are now 10 contested Taft delegates and four contested Roosevelt delegates from Indiana. The big fight is to be for the four delegates at large. The Taft side holds the credentials for the delegates at large.

The Difference.

Men think most of the present—the immediate; and rightly, their calling being to do and to work. Women, on the other hand, more of how things hang together in life; and rightly, too, because their destiny—the destiny of the families—is bound up in this interdependence, and it is exactly this which it is their mission to promote. —Goethe.

Couldn't Stand for Beetle.

A young lion-tamer of Jassy, Roumania, fainted the other day in the cage at a moment when the animals were perfectly quiet. She was removed before they did more than show signs of restlessness, and on recovering consciousness exclaimed: "Until the beetle crawling on one of the bars is taken off I am not going in again!"

Paper From Cotton Stalks.

Cotton stalks, it is thought, may be used for the manufacture of paper. A machine has been patented which will separate the brown bark from the inner pith, and it is claimed that excellent paper pulp may be made from the latter. From the bark a substitute for excelsior is manufactured.

The accident will not result in the delay of any orders which the company now has booked or which are secured before the building is remodeled. The plant was continue in operation just the same as if the accident had not occurred and the orders will be filled with usual promptness.

The loss from the accident will fall upon the Railroad Company. It is likely that the work of remodeling the building will begin within a few days.

PSYCHOLOGY OF DRESSING UP

Fancy Dress Balls Supply Cravings of Ignored Nature, According to Observer.

The extraordinary vogue of the fancy dress ball of late years—especially when it is one of monster dimensions—is one of the straws which show which way the wind of national character is blowing.

For it is not only the young and curly who throng these gay scenes, but serious people of middle age, of exalted position, and even of advanced years.

I fancy this rage for "dressing up" appeals to something profound and instinctive in human nature. If you look with observant eyes at the travestied figures around you, you will discover that the dress chosen is symbolical of a secret aspiration, a thwarted desire, an unacknowledged ambition.

Thus, the young man who must e'en sit on an office stool year in, year out, will brazen it as a pirate, or in the sauciest of cavalry uniforms.

The British matron will put on the flounces and languors of the Traviata, or the striped stockings and mob-cap of a soubrette.

So, also, you shall see ladies of high degree scantily attired as Bacchantes, and leading Dionysian dances, while the soldier or lawyer will impersonate Pierrot, and girls of flighty manners in private life appear, with downcast lids, as Puritans or nuns.

Perhaps some such outlet for poor human nature, which is squeezed into grooves for which it is often ill fitted, is a kind of safety valve which ought to be encouraged.

Nature is said to take terrible revenge on those who steadily ignore her. The putting on of motley is an innocent form of occasionally obeying her behests.—London Sketch.

Industrious Navajos.

The Navajos, numbering 30,000, live in northern Arizona and northwestern New Mexico. They occupy an area about as large as the state of Pennsylvania, most of which is a desert. Here for centuries they have made their own living by raising sheep and goats. A part of the wool is woven by their industrious, resourceful women into the beautiful and durable Navajo blankets, which promise to become a fair competitor of the imported rug.

Sensible Man.

A "Twenty-two Years Ago" item from the Wilson County Citizen: "Once in a while we hear of a man who knows of a good thing when he gets it. A citizen of Iowa whose wife eloped with another fellow received notice from a neighboring city that the couple had arrived there. He promptly telegraphed: 'Don't arrest the runaways; have decided to let them go to the devil.'—Kansas City Star.

CHAPTER XII.

Jess.

It was two weeks later when Ralph Stanton first reopened conscious eyes, this time upon the immaculate dreariness of a hospital room. A linen-clad nurse stood beside him, and at the foot of the bed was a gentleman unmistakably medical.

"Better, Mr. Stanton?" queried the latter, breezily professional.

"Floyd?" Stanton whispered, with difficulty. "Where is Jess Floyd?"

The doctor surveyed him oddly, hesitating. But the nurse stooped over him, her expression altering to impulsive compassion.

"Well, very well," she assured hastily. "Jess Floyd has gone home. Try to rest; try not to think of things."

He had known the truth before he asked the question. Stanton quietly turned his face to the wall and faintly, being very weak.

In his next conscious interval, he put another demand.

"Miss Floyd? She is alive?"

"Yes, oh yes," the nurse heartily affirmed. "Yes, indeed."

Once more Stanton turned to the wall. Jessica had not died when Jess did, then, according to her prediction; the tie of kinship had not held so far. She was in the little apartment, alone.

Later in the night his steady, silent gaze drew the attendant to his side.

"What is it? You are suffering more?"

"Ask her to stop singing," he begged. "It wasn't my fault. Ask her to stop."

The nurse took a glass from the table.

"There is no one singing, Mr. Stanton, no one at all. Drink this."

"No one? Not out there in the dark?"

"No."

He averted his gaze, and remained mute, unprotesting. After that he never lost memory again; not even in sleep, for he dreamed. Day and night, hour after hour, Jessica's monotonous song beat through his sick brain.

"Off, in the still night—"

His nights were not still, always when he closed his eyes he heard some one sobbing, Jessica Floyd weeping for her brother.

But gradually the last traces of delirium faded out. Slowly his superb health reasserted its dominion and brought Stanton back to normal life. The fractured bones knit, the other injuries healed.

He never spoke Floyd's name a second time. Nor did any one mention it to him. The head of the Mercury Company came out from New York to see him and express cordial sympathy. George, who had driven the Duplex to victory after the Mercury's wreck, came to visit him more than once, a blonde, cheery presence; as did the driver of the machine on the bridge who owned his own life to Stanton's cool fearlessness and skill. Mr. Green brought his fussy condolence. But none of them alluded to Jess Floyd. There was a curious constraint that marked them all, an air of watchfully keeping silent upon some subject constantly present in their minds. Stanton looked them through and through with his hollow blue-black eyes, and asked nothing.

It was two months before he could leave the hospital. Winter had shut in, raw and bleak. The day fixed for his departure, the doctor lingered in bidding him good-by.

"I have not wanted you to be worried, Mr. Stanton," he said brusquely. "Not on any account. But from the fact that your first question was 'Jess Floyd?' I imagine you feel some responsibility in that matter. May I ask where you are going?"

Before the spoken name Stanton winced, but steadily met the other's inquisitive eyes.

"To Miss Floyd," he responded.

The doctor held out a hearty hand. "Good, I was sure of it! A patient shows a lot of his character to his physician. Good luck to you—all kinds."

How did he know of unprotected Jessica Floyd? Stanton wearily pondered the question as he descended to the carriage. Or rather, how did he know of Stanton's feeling of responsibility toward her? The mechanic was supposed to take his chance with the driver. Perhaps delirium had revealed the close bond of friendship between Floyd and himself.

At the railroad station, a tall young man approached him, as the train whistled in the distance.

"My name is Richards," he announced diffidently. "You're hardly on your feet yet, Mr. Stanton; if there is anything I can do for you on the trip into the city, I'd be glad."

Stanton surveyed him with blank non-recognition.

"You don't remember me?" the young man tried again. "Have you forgotten the cub reporter who followed you on the afternoon you were arrested for speeding your machine in Pe'ham Parkway? You let your companion give me the story."

Stanton put out his hand, the poignant memory unendurable.

"Yes, yes. What of it?"

"It gave me my start, it meant a big life for me; and I didn't forget it. I made the accounts of the accident at the Cup race as easy for Miss Floyd as I could, when they came out. There was bound to be some sensationalism."

"Thank you," Stanton made brief acknowledgment. "There is nothing that you can do for me."

The train was hissing at the platform, but the reporter pursued him a step farther.

"You, you'll look after Miss Floyd, Mr. Stanton? That's square?"

The driver turned an amazed resentful glance upon his questioner, his hand on the rail. But, hardly aware why, he answered, however glacially.

"Yes, sir."

The reporter beamed at him, radiant. "I knew it," he called, above the roar and clang of the starting train. "I knew it was all right."

A dull gray sky arched above a snow-patched landscape, flurries of snow were in the harsh air. Stanton sat with unseeing eyes directed out the window, chin in hand, much as he had found Floyd sitting in the west-bound train the night they started for Indianapolis. September sunlight, October crimson and gold, all gone.

A delicate fragrance drifted around him, there was the frou-frou of soft garments as some one took the seat facing him. Stanton looked up, and saw Valerie Carlisle opposite, her blond fairness framed in dark velvets and furs, her amber eyes regarding him from beneath the shadow of her wide plumed hat.

"There is nothing at all singular in my being here, Mr. Stanton," she stated, in her cool, indolent voice. "Because I ascertained by telephone when you intended to leave the hospital, and so arranged to meet you on the train. Tomorrow I start for Europe, to remain for a long time, and it was necessary for me to speak with you first. I am sorry to see that you have been frightfully ill."

"You are too good," he answered, the old antagonism stirring him strongly. "As you observe, I was not fortunate enough to finish myself completely in the late wreck."

"One sometimes feels like that," she coincided, passing one small gloved hand across the soft fur of her muff. "I have wished for the finish, here lately, for my part. You probably did not know that I was engaged to marry Archer Ross, of the Atlanta Automobile Company?"

Stanton sat erect. All Floyd's suspicions of this girl rushed back to his mind.

"Yes," she confirmed the thought in his expression. "What you are imagining is quite correct. I tried very hard to induce you to drive for the Atlanta Company instead of for the Mercury. The Atlanta absolutely required a good racing record. But I failed. You were more than firm in your decision."

So that had been what she wanted of him. That had lain behind her polished surface of gracious admiration and had been the core of her insincerity.

"And when I would not drive for your company, you tried to prevent me from driving for my own?" He wondered incredulously.

She looked at him, and looked away again.

"I fancy you would scarcely credit me, Mr. Stanton, if I denied the fact, now. I have been very clumsy; a society woman is not trained to practical melodrama. You are unrelentingly difficult to lead."

Her flawless self-possession gave an effect of unreality to the whole affair. Stanton felt a vertigo of the mind. "You had that purpose in view when you first spoke to me at the Beach twenty-four hour race?" he questioned. "You hoped to induce me to wreck my car by fast driving, in order to leave the Atlanta a better chance of winning?"

"Oh, no!" she deprecated. "I never tried to cause your wreck—what can you think me? No, that was merely an impulsive experiment; I wanted to see if you would do as I wished. Some men have done so."

"Are you going to tell me that you drugged me at Lowell, on the eve of the road race?"

"Drugged you? That is a harsher description than I ever gave the incident in my own mind. But I poured into your coffee what Archer Ross had given me for that purpose. He said it would not harm you, only prevent you from driving next morning; he had been betting heavily on his car. But you raced, after all, ill as you must have been. I never imagined you would take such a risk, or I should have refused the responsibility. I disliked the task, anyhow. To be frank, I was horribly frightened when I saw you on the course, and when the report of your accident came in, I felt guilty of assassination."

He looked at her, at her ivory-and-gold beauty, her composed ease, his own face coldly emotionless. It did not matter, nothing mattered, now. But yet he read that behind that apparent ease of hers heaved a sea of stormy thoughts; as always, her speech was no guide to her mind.

"I suppose, then, that you would not have been distressed if I had broken my arm when I cranked your car after driving you home from New York," he commented.

Her color changed for the first time, her eyes flashed to his.

"You angered me," she retorted. "You brutally told me that you had not raced at the Beach, to please me, nor would you do so. You were supercilious, no man had ever treated me that way before. For one instant I did hate and long to hurt you; I pushed up the spark as you cranked. The next moment I would have undone it if I could."

There was a pause, as the train halted at a station, and the usual flurry of egress and ingress ensued. When the start was made:

"Why are you telling me this?" Stanton asked. "I am not considered especially amiable and forgiving, as a rule; why chance unnecessary confession?"

"No," her lip bent in a faint smile that was not mirthful. "But you are too masculine to retaliate upon a woman. I am not much afraid, at least."

Stanton Surveyed Him With Blank Non-Recognition.

though I find myself forced to depend upon your indulgence. A net was spread for the feet of the wicked by some one more acute, or less indifferent, than the Mercury's driver. Your—mechanician set a private detective at the task of following and guarding you until after the Cup race; fearing treachery, I suppose, would be used to prevent your driving. You are surprised?"

He saw the crowded railway station, on the morning of the return from Indianapolis, and Floyd's vivid, anxious face turned to him in the artificial light. He heard the fresh young voice: "If you won't take care of yourself, Stanton—"

"There was no need, Mr. Stanton. I had no idea of interfering with you personally. But the thing was done, and overdone. The man hired to play detective was not honest; he exceeded his mission of protection and went on to investigation for his own profit. If I am telling you this, it is because you would soon hear the story from him, anyhow, and because I want you to silence him. He has offered me his silence for a price, but I do not choose to yield to a blackmail which, once commenced, would never end. I prefer to ask shelter of your chivalry."

"I will silence him," he gave cold assurance.

"You are very good. It is not the least of my humiliations to know that you could deal me nothing more contemptuous than your forbearance." She hesitated. "There is one thing more; I would like to ask whether your recent accident was in any way caused by the late arrival of the tires for your machine."

"You did that?"

"Yes, I did that. I had the express car misdirected before it left my father's factory in Chicago. I knew your car could not race on bare rims." Stanton turned to the window. So she was responsible for the last harshness he had shown Floyd; since their misunderstanding could never have arisen if the mechanic had not been absent on the trip to Coney Island. His sudden nausea of loathing for her made calm reply difficult.

"The lost tires had nothing to do with the accident," he explained carefully. "If you have quite finished, Miss Carlisle, I will change to another seat."

"It is I who am going. I am glad that the wreck and alteration in you are not my fault. It may interest you to learn that Archer Ross broke his engagement to me last week, to marry a chorus girl."

"God," Breathed Stanton, and Sank Into a Chair.

He looked at her, then.

"Yes," she agreed. "Dramatic punishment, is it not? You can regale Miss Floyd with the tale. You are on your way to her, of course."

"Miss Carlisle!"

She rose, drawing around her the heavy folds of velvet. He saw now the faint lines about her delicate mouth and the new hardness of her tawny eyes. She had suffered, was suffering also.

"Congratulations her from me, Mr. Stanton. At least she has known a man, whatever it has cost her."

Yes, Floyd had played a man's part. Whatever the anguish of losing him, it was a matter of congratulation to have known him. It never occurred to Stanton that Valerie Carlisle might have meant him, himself.

NATURE'S WARNING.

Seymour People Must Recognize and Heed It.

Kidney ills come mysteriously.

But nature always warns you.

Notice the kidney secretions.

See if the color is unhealthy—

If there are settlements and sediment.

Passages frequent, scanty, painful.

It's time to use Doan's Kidney Pills.

To ward off serious diseases.

Doan's have done great work in Seymour.

E. H. Hinkle, 415 Laurel St., Seymour, Ind., says: "In 1900 I was on the verge of dropsy. I had sharp pains in my back that often radiated throughout my body, and I was hardly able to walk. I rested poorly and was annoyed by too frequent passages of the kidney secretions. After doctoring for over a year without being helped, Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by a friend, who had used them with good results. I procured a supply and the contents of a few boxes cured me. I have never had a recurrence of kidney trouble. Doan's Kidney Pills have my heartiest endorsement."

Ship-Rolling Minimized.

Herman Frahm of Hamburg has invented a device by which he believes the oscillation of a ship, resulting from the force of the waves, can be greatly reduced, much to the relief of passengers and the protection of cargo. He had in mind, also, that the heeling of the waves by a considerable interval. Having measured this difference of time Mr. Frahm has undertaken to neutralize the heeling by introducing U-shaped tanks, located athwartship, in which a column of water can oscillate with the same number of swings that are peculiar to the ship itself. This displacement is not simultaneous with, but follows the movements of the ship, thus producing a series of balanced impulses which neutralize each other, and bring about a condition of great stability in heavy seas.

Drives Off a Terror.

The chief executioner of death in the winter and spring months is pneumonia. Its advance agents are colds and grip. In any attack by one of these maladies no time should be lost in taking the best medicine obtainable to drive it off. Countless thousands have found this to be Dr. King's New Discovery. "My husband believes it has kept him from having pneumonia three or four times," writes Mrs. George W. Place, Rawsonville, Vt., and for coughs and colds and croup we have never found its equal." Guaranteed for all bronchial affections. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

Primrose Day.

Primrose day (in England), the anniversary of the death of Benjamin Disraeli, Lord Beaconsfield, had its origin in the tribute, a modest wreath of primroses, sent by Queen Victoria for the funeral of Beaconsfield. The general impression that the primrose was Beaconsfield's "favorite" flower came from a misunderstanding of the words attached to the queen's tribute: "F. Victoria. His favorite flower." The public thought the queen meant that the primrose was Beaconsfield's favorite flower, when in truth she meant that it was the favorite flower of the prince consort.

Could Shout for Joy.

"I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart," wrote C. B. Rader, of Lewisburg, W. Va., "for the wonderful double benefit I got from Electric Bitters, in curing me of both a severe case of stomach trouble and of rheumatism, from which I had been an almost helpless sufferer for ten years. It suited my case as though made just for me." For dyspepsia, indigestion, jaundice, and to rid the system of kidney poisons that cause rheumatisms, Electric Bitters have no equal. Try them. Every bottle is guaranteed to satisfy. Only 50 cents at The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

His Fond Hope.

Little William, son of an automobile enthusiast, lost a tooth in a fall from his sled.

His mother told him that she would have to take him to the dentist immediately to have it replaced.

"Oh, no, mother," said Willie; "let's wait till spring. Maybe Doctor Guy will have a new model ready for us by that time."—Harper's Bazar.

Foils a Foul Plot.

When a shameful plot exists between liver and bowels to cause distress by refusing to act, take Dr. King's New Life Pills, and end such abuse of your system. They gently compel right action of stomach, liver and bowels, and restore your health and all good feelings. 25 cents at The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

The Missing Suitcase

"I know you had a perfectly delightful time at your house party," said the girl who was calling.

"Indeed, we did," said the hostess. "It is too bad that you could not be there."

"I was heart-broken because I had to miss it. But tell me everything. I want particularly to hear about the girl your brother is engaged to."

"Oh, Alice. She's the dearest thing!"

"Nice looking?"

"She's a dream! Tall and slender and willowy."

"One of the staid and dignified type?"

"Not at all. That was what we feared, but she's nothing of the sort. I laughed so much during the week she was here that if I never laugh again I can't complain that I haven't had my share."

"You might pass round some of the fun."

"Well, you know it is not a long journey here from Middle Junction, where Alice lives, so she decided not to bring a trunk—"

"Not bring a trunk?"

"No, she decided to put everything in her brother's suitcase."

"But what in the world can a girl get into a suitcase?"

"You would be surprised to know all that Alice got into that suitcase. It must have been as big as a box-car."

"Didn't you see it yourself?"

"Indeed I didn't. That is the part that is so funny. She sent the suitcase over to the checking room at the railroad station and then she went around and gathered up the other stuff she wanted to bring. There was an armful of gifts for the children and things of that sort. Then she thought she would bring a dozen oranges. So when she climbed aboard the train, with her cloak and her umbrella and her oranges and her suitcase, she was pretty well loaded down."

"There was not enough room in the rack over her head for all her belongings, but she turned one of the seats over and piled most of her plunder on the seat opposite her. The suitcase she slid in between the two seats which were back to back. After a while she leaned her head on something and went to sleep."

"Well, when Alice's train pulled into the station Alice woke up, put on her hat and gathered together her thousand and one belongings, then she reached in between the two seats for her suitcase, and withdrew her hand full of empty air. She stopped over and looked—the suitcase was gone!"

"Mercy!"

"Yes, while she had slept in her seat someone had deliberately taken her suitcase and climbed off at one of the way stations with it. You should have seen her when she arrived for a week's visit with no clothes but those she stood in and with no baggage but a dozen oranges and a bundle of gifts. She was tragedy personified."

"What I should think so!"

"When we had heard all about the suitcase I took Alice up to her room to fix up as best she could, and there was barely time to get ready for dinner. But she said she would just curl her hair a little and wash her face, and make her traveling dress do until she could send home or do some shopping. So I sat down while she was preparing herself before the glass. The first thing she said was: 'Oh dear! My curling iron is in the suitcase!'"

"How provoking!"

"Wasn't it? But I said: 'Never mind. You can curl your hair with my iron.'"

"At that a sudden thought struck her and she fell back on the bed and screamed with laughter."

"What was it?"

"That was what I wanted to know. When I approached her she reached for me and pulled me down on the bed with her and cried: 'Jennie, I can't curl my hair!'"

"Why not?" I asked her.

"Because," she gasped, 'my hair is in the suitcase, too!'"

"We just clung to each other and laughed until mother heard us and came running to see what it was all about. Then when we told her she screamed with laughter, too."

"It broke down all barriers of reserve between Alice and us and we had a perfectly lovely time."—Chicago Daily News.

Interest in Fossil Beds.

The fossil beds of the west that have furnished such wonderful specimens of gigantic animals of former ages, such as, for instance, the diplocodus, replicas of which have recently been placed on exhibition in several of the great European museums, sometimes yield fossils, which, if not so large as the great saurian mentioned above, are nevertheless of paramount interest to men of science. During the summer of 1909, the remains of several fossil turtles were collected by members of the United States geological survey, and from a study of these Prof. O. P. Hay has been able to describe eight new species of fossil turtles from west of the one hundredth meridian.

GRAY HAIRS VANISH.

Harmless Remedy Made From Sage and Sulphur Restores Natural Color.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs which unfortunately are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hair, however, handsome as they may be, makes a person look old. We all know the advantages of being young. Aside from the good impression a youthful appearance makes on others, simply knowing that you are "looking fit," gives one courage to undertake and accomplish things. So why suffer the handicap of looking old on account of gray hairs when a simple remedy will give your hair youthful color and beauty in a few days' time?

Most people know that common garden sage acts as a color restorer and scalp tonic as well. Our grandmothers used a "Sage Tea" for keeping their hair dark, soft and luxuriant. In Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy we have an ideal preparation of Sage, combined with Sulphur and other valuable remedies for dandruff, itching scalp and thin, weak hair that is split at the ends or constantly coming out. A few applications of this valuable remedy will bring back the color, and in a short time it will remove every trace of dandruff and greatly improve the growth and appearance of the hair.

Get a fifty-cent bottle from your druggist today, and notice the difference in your hair after a few days' treatment. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

Fifty Years Ago Today. June 3.

Steamers loaded with wounded from the Richmond battlefield reached northern ports. Fortress Monroe sheltered 2,000 wounded awaiting transportation. Richmond was a vast hospital. Churches, hotels and empty buildings were used, the wounded lying on bare floors.

Evicted tenants in Ireland turned loose swarms of bees upon the sheriffs who enforced the eviction law.

Temperance

ODD FACTS OF TEMPERANCE

Definition is, Moderate Use of Things That Are Useful and Total Omission of Harmful Ones.

One of the most pointed and effective temperance addresses delivered by men of science in the United States was given recently at the Teachers Institute of Delaware county, Ohio, by Prof. Thomas C. Blaisdell of Lansing. His definition of temperance is especially striking. He says: "Temperance is the moderate use of those things that are helpful, and the total omission of those things that are harmful."

The professor declares that every man should beware of even the moderate use of liquor for five principal reasons:

First—It threatens the physical structure of the body.
Second—It decreases the capacity for work.

Third—It lowers the mental ability and degenerates the morals.

Fourth—It greatly lessens the chance for health and long life.

Fifth—It causes a man's sins to be visited on his children and his grandchildren.

The professor asked this question: Why are the working men who drink discriminated against by employers? He then proceeded to answer his own question. He said that alcohol, even in moderate quantities, decreases the capacity for muscular and mental work, obliterating part of the field of consciousness, and abolishing a certain collateral train of thought. Experiments in committing lines from Shakespeare shows that two glasses of beer each day for two years results in a loss of working capacity of the mind from 25 to 40 per cent, and lessens the capacity of the memory to about 70 per cent.

In New Orleans, when the last cholera epidemic broke out, there were 5,000 cases reported before a single man of temperance habits took the disease. In France, in sections where there are no vineyards, there are 33 out of every 1,000 who die of tuberculosis. In the sections where the vineyards are plentiful, 108 out of every 1,000 die of tuberculosis.

Ten alcoholic families were taken account of producing 57 children. Only ten of the number were normal. Ten non-alcoholic families were taken, producing 61 children. Fifty-four of the number were normal, a proportion of 89 to 17.

The entire address of Prof. Blaisdell forms a valuable addition to the many pronouncements of science on the alcohol evil.

WHY SOME MEN SEE DOUBLE

Muscles of the Eyeballs of Drunkards Are Temporarily Paralyzed, Says a Scientific Writer.

A scientific writer has given his opinion why drunken men see double. In the first place it is essential that the "elevated" party must have two good eyes. No amount of liquor would make a one-eyed man see two half dollars where only one exists.

When we wish to see distinctly we adjust the eyes by converging them more or less so that the image falls upon the sensitive point of the retina. If the object is too far off to enable us to get a distinct image in either eye the eyes are so constructed that they can bring the object nearer, or we can, by contracting the eye muscles, bring the retina nearer the lens, thus getting a clear sight of the object.

Both eyes may be moved either upward or downward or to the right or to the left, but it is impossible to direct one of them upward and the other downward. If we converge the eyes so that the two images fall on the sensitive point of the corresponding retinas we get in the brain a sharp image. If, however, from any cause we are not able to move the eyeballs so as to have this image fall squarely on the retina we see double.

This seeing double can be caused by temporary or permanent paralysis of the muscles of the eyeballs. For permanent paralysis there may be any one of several causes. Excessive use of alcohol or tobacco will produce temporary paralysis. Under the influence of strong drink the controlling muscles of the eye, like others of the body, are not under command, hence some drunken men stagger in their speech, others stagger in their walk and others see double.

Surgeon Must Not Drink.

"I am a surgeon. My success depends upon my brain being clear, my muscles firm, and nerves steady. No one can take alcoholic liquor without blunting these physical powers which I must keep on edge. As a surgeon I must not drink."—Dr. Lorenz, Famous Austrian Surgeon.

Drink Is Chief Bar.

"For thirty years I have been priest and bishop of London. I have learned some lessons, and the first thing is this: The chief bar to the working of the Holy Spirit of God in the souls of men and women is intoxicating drink."—Cardinal Manning.

Banish Alcoholic Drinks.

"I maintain that the best course is to banish alcoholic drinks from the list of necessities for an Arctic expedition."—Doctor Nansen.

Famous Stage Beauties

look with horror on Skin Eruptions, Blotches, Sores or Pimples. They don't have them, nor will any one, who uses Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It glorifies the face. Eczema or Salt Rheum vanish before it. Advertise to Boost Population.

A newspaper advertising campaign, in an effort to obtain for Alton, Ill., a population of 100,000 within the next ten years, will be inaugurated by the board of trade of Alton, following the phenomenal success of the committee of 55 prominent business men of that place, who, in the short period of six hours, obtained 407 members, each to pay $25 a year dues for three years.

The receipts for the campaign now total more than $30,000. An attempt will be made to increase the membership to at least 500. Each member is asked to pledge the $25 per year fee for a period of three years.

His Connection.

"You talk about this being a government of, by and for the people," sneered the visitor from abroad. "Tell me, what connection with the government have you personally?"

"I have $3.75 in the postal savings bank," replied the loyal citizen, proudly.

Omissions of History.

Gutenberg had invented printing. "How else," he said, "could the average congressman ever get his speeches out of his system!"

For in the olden days the minutes of the meeting contained nothing but the actual proceedings.

Inured to the Cold.

"I have begun preliminary practice."

"What do you mean?"

"I go out every day and sit for a few minutes on the bleachers. I want to harden myself for those opening games."

Explained.

"I met Nippers just now and he exclaimed, 'Tis a good old world!'"

"As a rule, Nippers is not at all optimistic."

"I know it, but it seems that he recently swindled a neighbor in a shrewd business deal."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

S.S.S. THE CURE FOR SCROFULA

The usual symptoms of Scrofula are enlarged glands of the neck, sores and ulcers on the body, skin affections, catarrhal troubles, weak eyes, and general poor health. The inherited poison, transmitted through the blood, pollutes and weakens this fluid, and in place of its nutritive qualities fills the circulation with scrofulous matter, which saps the vitality of the entire system. Thousands of children, born with a scrofulous taint, have spent their childhood in constant physical suffering, and grown to manhood or womanhood handicapped by ill health and stunted growth, and perhaps later some disease of the bones or joints developed. S. S. S., given in their early life, would have prevented this. It would have cleansed and purified the blood of the taint, nourished and strengthened their systems, and assisted each to grow into strong, healthy manhood or womanhood. S. S. S. is the very best remedy for Scrofula. It goes down to the bottom of the trouble, and cleanses the circulation of all scrofulous matter. It supplies the weak, diseased blood with strength and health-building qualities, and under the purifying effects of this great remedy all symptoms of Scrofula pass away. S. S. S. contains no minerals in any form, and is an absolutely safe treatment for children, even infants, or persons of any age. Literature about Scrofula and any medical advice free.

BROWNSTOWN MAY GET FALL MEETING.

bytery at New Albany in September with the three churches there; but the committee and department picked a town that was a typical rural and community center, and which had already made successful demonstration of the work. Brownstown was chosen as the young peoples' organization there and at Crothersville are favorably known throughout Southern Indiana.

The Country Life Department in New York will send a specialist to conduct a big social institute the last day of Presbytery. President Mills will assist in making up the program and the Brownstown, Seymour and Crothersville Presbyterians people will join in one big fellowship the last day. The Brownstown church will complete some improvements in preparation for this good event.

The Boy and Girl Scouts of Jackson County will have an opportunity for a splendid demonstration at that time. A careful social, educational and religious survey of the entire territory of Southern Indiana will be made this summer and the meeting at Brownstown will have significance for all the schools and churches. A number of the big universities are cooperating with the Department in holding summer schools for ministers of all denominations in the Country Life Work. Rev. John R. Voris who will deliver the commencement address for Vernon township Saturday night at Uniontown is a member of the committee and a leader in the Country Life Movement. Rev. Warren H. Wilson head of the Department was born in a mountain log cabin in Pennsylvania and has given his whole life to the uplift and enlightenment of rural communities. The United States Government has given every aid possible to the work. Thus every possible assistance will be rendered the discouraged rural church and the farming people of every community.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Birthday Anniversary.

Seventy-three years ago a family came from Germany to find a home in America. They landed in Jackson county Feb. 23rd, 1839 and located on what has been known for the past generation as the F. H. Kasting Home. Uncle Fred was then only a small boy less than 7 years old. His father and mother soon made the American home a reality.

Fifty-six years ago the next generation took charge. F. H. Kasting and Doris Borchering when married, bought the home farm and furnishing a comfortable home for his parents the remaining days of their life.

Uncle Fred and Aunt Doris have lived 50 years of active married life, saw many discouraging and sad days but through it all they have come out conquerors in the end.

To one who knows their real enjoyment, it is that they can not only feel proud of the fortune they have faithfully and honestly earned but that they have a large family of children pleasantly situated in homes of their own. Their youngest son, Geo. E. Kasting and wife now own the home farm. Uncle and aunt are enjoying a pleasant home with them, retiring from all earthly cares, awaiting the war of the Master to call them to their reward in heaven.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Kasting invited all the children and grandchildren to help celebrate the eightieth birthday anniversary of Mr. Kasting. An elegant dinner was served and a very pleasant day spent together. G. C. B.

MARRIED.

SMITH-NEWLAND.

Seth Newland and Miss Valeria Smith both of Vallonia were married Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock by Elder Harley Jackson at his study on North Chestnut street.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Smith and has frequently visited in Seymour. The groom is a contractor at Vallonia. They left directly after the ceremony for Indianapolis for a ten days' trip when they will return to Vallonia where they will reside.

Six O'Clock Dinner.

Miss Lois Shepard entertained with a dinner party Sunday evening in honor of Miss Grace Stahl of Greenville. Covers were laid for six guests.

Missionary Meeting.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. church will hold its June Tea at the home of Mrs. H. F. McColgin, 220 S. Chestnut St., Tuesday afternoon, at 2:30. A cordial invitation is extended to all. The following program has been arranged:

Offering
It is with pride that reference is made to the patronage accorded the Spaulhurst Osteopaths at their former offices. Their fair dealing, effective methods and skill in their special lines has won for them a practice that has grown too large for their old quarters.

Offices Removed.

To serve the best interests of their practice and to give still more efficient and effectual service, they have removed their offices to the new Velslage building, 14 Second Street. Their new offices are completely equipped with modern, non-drug appliances. This will be most welcome news to the friends and patrons of Osteopathy. Seymour is to be congratulated on the character of the osteopathic services thus made available to our citizens.

That the Spaulhurst-Cunningham osteopaths the public benefactors is evidenced by the kindly expressions of those restored to health through their skillful treatment. Their conscientious, thorough, painstaking care and candid, helpful advice given each individual case appeals to the intellectual, the cultured, the thoughtful, and their experience and ability commend them to those who suffer and are not improving under present treatment.

Odd Fellows Take Notice.
